"Don't go to the school and take up twenty or more minutes of the teacher's time in inquiring about your child," said the speaker, "as it is time taken from the other children. If your hoy or girl is getting along well in school you would not take much of the teacher's time in asking about him or her; take this time at the conference following the meetings."

Miss Young suggested that small dues be charged in the Parent-Teachers' Association. She said she had discussed the matter with many parents and that they were in favor of such a charge. The money thus collected, said, could be used beneficially in promoting school work. "Don't go to the school and take up

Miss Hendley's Suggestions.
